ABOUT THE PROMOTION

LoCo Pro Wrestling started in 2017 as a single show built specifically for Longmont. Thom Ingram, a Longmont high school teacher, and Aaron Macomber had met working at an Apple Store, found they were both wrestling fans, and trained together at Primos Premier Pro Wrestling's Butcher Shop in Denver as the tag team Cosmos and Chronos. What bothered them was that there was nothing closer to home. Ingram booked the Dickens Opera House, brought in students he knew as the crew, and built a Longmont-specific story with them: two factions fighting over the founding of the city itself.

Battle for Main Street was meant to be the only one. The promotion went dormant, Ingram moved away, and Macomber took it over and brought it back to the Dickens Opera House in November 2025, eight years after the first bell. The factions and the Longmont mythology carried over, and full matches now publish free on YouTube between shows.
